

Dear FCC Commissioners & Staff:

Hello my name is Sean Culotta, I have my own business and I do subcontract work for a local ISP. In the constitution it says something to the effect of not allowing a monopoly for the good of the people. If you allow them to create a monopoly this will only open other doors for bigger companies to do the same thing and will in time force all the small business men and women like myself out of work. People have the right to do business with whom ever they desire. But with companies like Bell South controlling every thing that the local ISP industries use in their business will force people to have no other choice but to do business with them. In turn I believe doing this would be a grave mistake and should not be looked upon lightly. Just being blunt and honest people like this make Billions of dollars a year and they still want more and the little people just want to stay alive. I urge you to look at all the smaller business people in the world today and where they would be if this is allowed. Thank you very much.

Sincerely,

Sean Culotta
